Tactical Data Links: Connecting the Community

Frederic Gimenez | Thales

---

Many nations first experienced tactical data links with new MIDS-equipped fighters that would participate in coalition operations or enjoy intra-flight communications. Connecting the rest of the national community is a further step towards interoperability that may impact different participants such as C2s, ships, mission aircraft, helicopters or Special Forces. This presentation will highlight some of the challenges in deploying Tactical Data Links and it will explore a number of solutions offered by NATO and the industry.
